Academic Programs and Degree Options

Information available on our website at:

Individualized Studies - <http://www.metrostate.edu/student/university-info/university-info/college-of-individualized-studies> and

<http://www.metrostate.edu/academic-programs/undergraduate-programs>

Students admitted into the College of Individualized Studies design their own degree and create a focus that matches their unique experience. The College of Individualized Studies brings together transfer credits and degree plans that include required courses, student designed learning, credit for prior learning (learning from sources outside of a college), and partnerships with other Minnesota State Colleges and Universities. Degree planning can incorporate minors as desired by the student.

Are you willing to accept credits from McNally Smith students?

Yes. The number of college credits accepted will depend on the major. The College of Individualized Studies will accept up to 72 credits of previous college work considered technical in nature. Additional general education credit seeking to be transferred is possible through review.

If so, please outline your transfer process including any exceptions, guarantees, limits, etc.

Information available on our website at:

<http://www.metrostate.edu/admissions/undergraduate/transfer-students>

While the Spring application is no longer available online, students can apply for summer at metrostate.edu and notify us at admissions@metrostate.edu requesting the switch to spring. Classes for spring start on January 8, 2018.
